William Ahearn Found

Originally, this player was listed as Charles Ahearn from Troy, New York. He caught 1 game with Troy in 1880. A look at the 1880 census shows William Ahearn, ballplayer. This man had a brother John who was a deputy sheriff. Richard Malatzky followed this man throughout the Troy city directories. He worked as a county clerk for several years, then became a collar turner. (What exactly does a collar turner do anyway?) The 1919 city directory listed his death date as April 28, 1919. Richard looked up his obituary that said he was active in local athletics in Troy and that he had been a county clerk. It is certainly tough to find an 1880 one gamer, especially since we had the wrong first name. This is a very deserving Find of the Month.

Frank Chapman

You might recall from our March/April newsletter that Fred Chapman, once listed as a 14-year-old major leaguer was dropped and replaced by Frank Chapman. Richard Malatzky was able to track him down. Frank Chapman pitched for Kingston and Richard found a note in the Kingston paper that he hailed from Newburgh, New York. Richard checked the Newburgh city directories and found Frank H. Chapman, ballplayer, listed from 1884 through 1892. This also gave him his family and he was able to trace Chapman through the directories until 1936. Richard checked the New York state deaths and found that a Frank H. Chapman died in Newburgh on December 2, 1937. The Newburgh paper didn't have much of an obituary, but it did have his address and it matched the address that Richard had for the ballplayer. Great work.

Fernando Rodriguez

Fernando Rodriguez pitched for the Cubs and Phillies in 1958 and 1959. He was one of our missing Cubans. There were a few Cubans who played prior to the expansion era who had vanished. We had no address for them and didn't know whether they were living in the United States or had gone back to Cuba. If they went back to Cuba, they may be impossible to find. Rodriguez was one of those players. Galo Gonzalez found an obituary in a Miami Spanish language newspaper for Rodriguez and it gave a detailed account of his baseball career. These players are difficult even if they stayed here due to the fairly common names they have, so this was a great find. Not counting players for whom we have partial information, that leaves just two Cubans who are still missing: Rogelio Martinez and Manuel Montejo. I heard a rumor a long time ago that Montejo had gone back to Cuba, but I have no proof of that. Hopefully, one day we'll be able to locate these guys as well.

2009 Rookie List

There were 204 players who made their major league debuts in 2009. Many thanks to Pete Palmer and Dave Vincent for their hard work in tracking down all the biographical details on these rookies. Here is some trivia on the 2009 rookie list. First of all, there is one player who goes by a different name than his birth name. Victor Manuel Marte's birth name is Victor Manuel Rodriguez (Marte). The oldest rookie was Ken Takahashi, who was 40 when he debuted for the New York Mets. Takahashi was only the 4th player to debut after his 40th birthday and was the 4th oldest rookie in major league history. The other three were Satchel Paige, 42 years, 2 days, Diomedes Olivo, 41 years, 7 months, 14 days, and Chuck Hostetler, 40 years, 6 months, 27 days. The youngest player to debut was Madison Bumgarner, 20 years, 1 month, 7 days. The tallest were Doug Fister and Sean West, both 6-08. The shortest were Everth Cabrera, Luis Durango, Jarrett Hoffpauir, Michael McCoy, and Shane Robinson, all 5-09. Where have the Freddie Pateks of the world gone? The heaviest was Kyle Blanks at 285, and the lightest was Esmil Rogers at 150. Interestingly, Rogers was 6-01.

There were several relatives who made their debuts. Rusty Ryal is the son of Mark Ryal, Ryan Webb is the son of Hank Webb, Matt Pagnozzi is the nephew of Tom Pagnozzi, John Mayberry, Jr. is the son of John Mayberry, Sr., Michael Brantley is the son of Mickey Brantley, Neil Walker is the son of Robert Thomas Walker, Eric Young, Jr. is the son of Eric Young, Sr., Alfredo Figaro is the cousin of Fernando Rodney, and Rick Porcello is the grandson of Sam Dente. Finally, there is my favorite name. There aren't too many candidates this year, so I have to go with Fu-Te Ni. Special consideration goes to Marc Rzepczynski, who makes me happy that I can cut and paste when I have to type out his name.

SABR Renewals

I just wanted to remind everyone that it is the time of year to renew your SABR membership. Just think. If you don't renew, you won't be getting this newsletter any more.

It's Not Too Late To Turn Bock

Bock Baker had a career we can only dream about. In his debut for Cleveland in 1901, he gave up 23 hits and 6 walks in 8 innings of pitching. Amazingly, he held the opposition to 13 runs. Traded to Philadelphia, he pitched another game giving up 6 hits and 6 walks in 6 innings, but yielding 11 runs. His career was mercifully over after those two games.

With a record like that, we want to make sure we credit it to the right man, and it appears that our listing is somewhat shaky. Peter Morris has done some research on this player and here are his findings.

His birth date goes back to Turkin and Thompson, who also -- I'm not making this up -- listed him as the manager of the Tigers in the 1930s and in the 1940 World Series. I guess at some point somebody pointed out that that was Del Baker, but the birth date stayed and then the date of death followed in the early 1990s when Bill Haber located the player we presently list.

I don't know that the date of death is wrong, but the birth date seems to belong to a janitor/undertaker from Buffalo who was listed as being short and stout on his WWI card, while the ballplayer was described as "a second Rusie" (i.e., a giant) in size. In addition that man seems to be in Buffalo on the 1900 census while the man Peter believes to be the ballplayer is in Watervliet.

Here are some notes that Peter found:

SL 2/5/98 "MR. MALONEY'S 'FIND.' James D. Maloney, president and manager of the old Troy Base Ball Club, has made a 'find,' which he declares will prove a bonanza for someone the coming season. He's a pitcher, and a crackerjack. His name is Baker, a young German, not yet 21 years old. Last year he pitched for a semi-professional team, bearing his own name, and won the championship of Albany and Rensselaer counties. He is a second Rusie in the box a big, strapping fellow with terrific speed, and can hit and field his position with the best of them. He is a trifle slow on the bases, but this is his only fault, and it can be remedied. I saw him pitch a game myself against the Laureates (a team made up of some of the cracks from the big colleges) last summer, and he didn't do a thing but make monkeys of them. Several Eastern League magnates tried to secure his services toward the latter part of the season, but he was unable to secure his parents' consent to go out. Mr. Maloney has 'talked it' into young Baker's father, and he will endeavor to place him. Mr. Maloney has had great success in discovering young blood. It was he who first brought out John O'Brien, the heavy-hitting left fielder of the champion Syracuse Club; also Jimmy Garry, of the same team, and Pete Eagan, of Scranton, and Tommy Donovan, of Meriden, Conn. Any club in need of an AI pitcher will do well to address a letter to Charles Baker, care of Mr. James D. Maloney, Broadway, Watervliet."

Springfield Republican, March 3, 1898, Charles Baker of Watervliet signs with Ponies

SL 9/3/98, "Maloney's protégé, smiling Bock Baker"

Albany Journal, August 20, 1901, Bock Baker pitched for Albany, also July 27.

Utica Herald-Dispatch, July 16, 1903, Bock Baker, the Watervliet pitcher, has signed with Minneapolis; Albany last year and Cleveland in 1901.

Utica Herald-Dispatch, March 22, 1902, Charles Baker of Watervliet signs with Utica

Albany Evening Journal, May 9, 1901, Watervliet: "Charles Baker of this city has signed to pitch with the Boston team in the American League. 'Bock' is considered to be one of the 'finds' of the season. He will pitch his first game tomorrow."

So this is the obvious candidate:

1880 census, Watervliet
George Baker 34 Gy butcher
Minnie Baker 31 Gy
Anna Baker 10 NY
George Baker 8
Willie Baker 6
Martha Baker 4
Charles Baker 2

1900 census, Watervliet
George Baker 54 Gy meat market
Managord [?] Baker 51 Gy 8/8
Martha Baker 22 NY
Charles Baker 6/79 NY clerk
Lottie Baker 19 NY
Fred Baker 15 NY
Hattie Baker 14 NY

Albany Evening Journal, October 11, 1916, "WATERVLIT: The funeral of Mrs. George Baker, whose death occurred in New York Sunday night, was held this afternoon at the chapel of the Albany Rural cemetery. The Rev. George E. Perry, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, officiated, and four sons of Mrs. Baker acted as pallbearers." She only had four sons, so that would seem to mean Charles was alive.

Clearly, this is a good choice for our Mystery of the Month.
